NEW ORLEANS, March 23, 1854. To the Editor of the Union:

Sir: - In your paper of 16th instant I find the following paragraph: "Cuba is peculiarly situated. She belongs to a government that is far distant; and whilst that government gives its officers power to commit outrages, it does not authorize them to make reparation. We are, therefore, compelled to resort to Spain for redress whenever the Cuban officials perpetrate a

This is the very general belief in this country as to the attributes and authority of the captain-general of Cuba; but it is a great error.

The authority of that officer-the Spanish Crown in Cuba-is a dual authority, and far exceeds that of any other captain-general in the Spanish dominions. The paragraph above quoted describes very accurately the usual attributes of a captain-general; but higher powers are conferred upon the captain-general of Cuba by the royal decree of 25th May, 1825, which is still in force, and which reads as follows: "MINISTRY OF WAR .- The King, our lord, whose royal bosom has been inspired with the greatest confidence by your excellency's approved fidelity, your indefatigable zeal in his royal service, by the judicious and well-devised measures which, since he honored you with the command of that island, you have taken to maintain its possessions and to preserve within just limits those who would leave the path of honor, and to chastise those who, forgetful of their rectitude and of love for his royal person which charthe inconveniences that might result from the divisisland his legitimate sovereign authority and the the decision of his Council of Ministers, to authorize your excellency, conferring upon you plenavily all the full power given by the royal ordinances to governors of places in a state of siege. "To the Captain General of Cuba." It is in the exercise of these extraordinary powers by the captain-general of Cuba that nearly all, if not gift of power-"conferring upon you, plenarily, all ernors of places in a state of siege "-will convey from his letter. to the most obtuse mind a clear idea of the vast exof supreme authority, personating the sovereign.

When the captain general of Cuba replies to a foreign power making a claim upon him that he has no authority to treat, it is well understood by all intelligent persons in Cuba, and in Spain, that he refers about an acre and a half, with a comfortable dwelling For Piles, Ulcers, Fresh Cuts, White Swellings, Sore to the usual powers of a captain general. The Correspondence Between Messrs. Cutting and Breckenridge. The following is said to be a correct abstract of the correspondence between Messrs. Cutting and Breckenridge, growing out of their late difficulty : On Monday, the 27th March, after the personal discussion in the House, Mr. Cutting addressed a note to Mr. Breckenridge, in which he demanded of him a withdrawal of the word "false," or that he would make such explanations as was due from one gentleman to another, and he referred to Mr. Maurice his friend to act for him. Mr. Breckenridge replied to the first part of this note, that the word " false" was used by him in consequence of a previous expression made use of by Mr. Cutting, and until that was withdrawn he could not withdraw the word complained of. With reference to the second part the note, Mr. Breckenridge considered it a challenge, and accordingly appointed Col. Hawkins his friend to arrange preliminaries.

On the following morning, Tuesday, Col. Hawkins met Mr. Maurice, and tendered to him a note from Mr. Breckenridge, accepting the alternative proposition suggested in Mr. Cutting's note. This Mr. Maurice declined, but presented a letter from Mr. Cutting, which Col. Hawkins considered could not be received, on the ground that no additional note could be accepted until Mr. Breckenridge's response to Mr. Cutting's challenge had been received by the latter. Thereupon both gentlemen separated, and Col. Hawkins delivered Mr. Breckenridge's note to Mr. Cutting in person. Mr. Maurice did not deliver the note he held from Mr. Cutting to Mr. Brecken-

Mr. Cutting, at this stage of the proceedings, substituted Col. Monroe for Mr. Maurice as his friend, who waited upon Col. Hawkins, and demanded the terms of the meeting. On Wednesday morning Col. Hawkins met Col. Monroe, and handed him in writing the terms, namely to meet that afternoon between three and four o'clock near Mr. Blair's residence with rifles, at sixty paces. At this interview the position of Mr. Breckenridge as the challenged party was not called in question, but objection was made by Col Monroe to the hour of meeting, on the ground that weapons could not be prothority and the attributes of the several officers, for to a postponement of the meeting till the following morning, and it was agreed that the friends of the parties should meet that evening and make final arrangements. In the evening Col. Monroe presented a paper in writing, claiming that his principal was the challenged not the challenging party, and, therefore, had the choice of weapons, which he named-pistols, at ten paces. Col. Hawkins declined to accede to this view of the case or yield the right of his principal to name the time, place and weapons, as the challenged party. Col. Monroe took the ground that neither he nor his principal considered the first note a challenge, but asked for time to confer with Mr. Cutting. Col. Monroe the next morning stated that he was authorised by Mr. Cutting to declare that his first note was not intended as a challenge. Col. Hawkins then referred them to Mr. Breckenridge's first note of the 27th, in which he declined to make the retraction of the word "false," so long as the cause remained in Mr. Cutting's previous expressions. To this Mr. Cutting replied in writing, that the expressions used were intended as a criticism on his arguments, and not as personal to Mr. Breckenridge. Mr. Breckenridge thereupon expressed his satisfaction at the disavowal of any personal offence on the part of Mr. Cutting, and willingly withdrew the offensive rejoinder, remarking that a similar disavowal on the part of Mr. Cutting at the time would have prevented all difficulty.

- The affair was there terminated, to the satisfaction of the friends of both parties.

A few days since, a gentleman telegraphed to one of our western cities to gain intelligence of his daughter, who was ill. In return he received a laconic reply from her attending physician, which purported that he was a grandfather. "Heavens!" ne exclaimed, throwing down the missile as if it had been a hot cinder, "My daughter-a child?" "Child!" wondered the doctor-" what child? "Why, sir, Jid you not send that dispatch?" pettishly exclaimed our friend, as he handed to the doctor the dispatch which he had hastily picked up from the floor before he came from home. The doctor looked at it, and a broad smile was visible upon his features. "I sent you a dispatch; but heaven knows it never contained such news as this! The one I sent intimated that your daughter was just through having a chill?" Our friend felt that he had been taken in and done for, undesignedly, and offered to treat if the doctor would only keep it still.
